Dear Sir,

When in New York in 1910 I paid many visits to your collection and had the pleasure of meeting Miss Fuld in.

As I am getting on in life I have come to live in the country and with a view to getting things in order have decided to sell my collection of Gun-money (James' Crowns, halfcrowns, shillings and sixpence,) in all some 78 specimens, of this number 42 are varieties not in the cabinet of the Royal Irish Academy; (proof of this I held in writing from that body) consequently as that collection is the finest Irish Collection in the world the pieces in question are extremely rare.

Gun-money is now very hard to get.

As a body like the R. I. C. moves very slowly I will probably be in my grave before anything definite could be done, in the circumstances, therefore, I am writing to know if your Society will care to entertain the question of purchase, if so, how it is to be arranged, have you any representative in London?

I am, Yours very truly,
